

Home Screen.

This is the first screen you see after unlocking your phone. It has your app icons, your most important apps at the bottom, and a search button.

Your apps do not always fit on just one screen. There are usually several pages.

Change page

See which page you are on

Look at the small dots at the bottom of the screen. The highlighted dot shows which page you are currently viewing.

Go directly to the first page

Quickly swipe up from the bottom of the screen without stopping halfway. This will take you straight to the first page, wherever you are. Press the Home button if your device has a physical one.

See all your apps together

Keep swiping left until you reach the end. You will find a list of all your apps organised into categories (on iPhone this is called the “App Library”; on Android devices, you usually swipe up from the Home Screen to see it).
