

Notifications.

A notification is a small message that appears on your screen to inform you of something new, e.g., a message you received, or a reminder. You may see it for a few seconds on your screen while you're doing something else, or find it later along with all the others.

Notifications on the Lock Screen

You don't even need to unlock your phone to read your notifications. When you turn on the screen, notifications appear as small boxes on the Lock Screen, with the sender's name and a few words from the message.

How to view notifications.

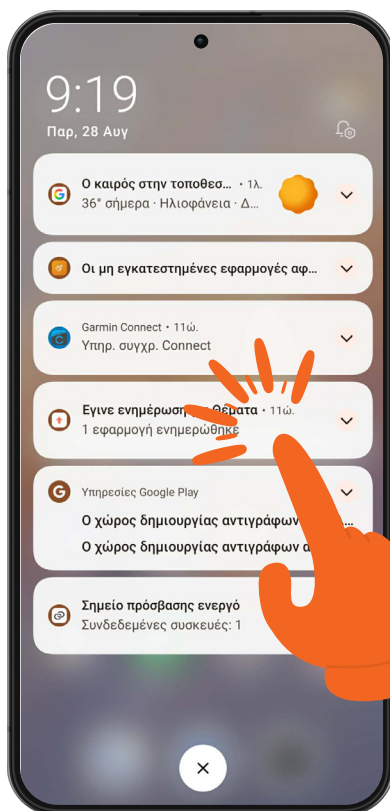

1. Open the list

Place your finger at the top of the screen and swipe it downward to pull down the notifications menu.

2. Open your notifications

Now you can see all your notifications. Tap on a notification to be taken directly to the app that sent it.

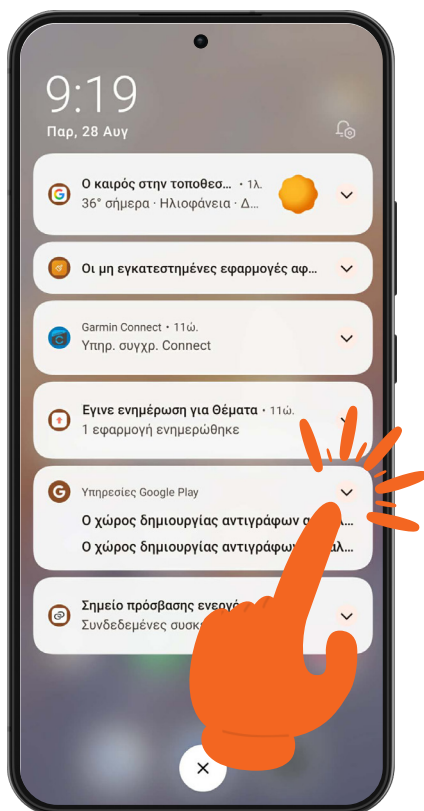

Notifications.

How to view notifications.

See all your notifications

When there are several together, tap the arrow pointing upward to expand them all.

Collapse your notifications

Tap the arrow again, which now points downward, to collapse the notifications again.

