

Notifications.

A notification is a small message that appears on your screen to let you know about something new, such as a message you received or a reminder. You may see it for a few seconds on your screen while you are doing something else, or find it later with the rest of your notifications.

Notifications on the Lock Screen

You do not even need to unlock your phone to read your notifications. When you turn on the screen, notifications appear as small boxes on the Lock Screen, with the sender's name and a few words from the message.

How to view notifications.

1. Open the list

Place your finger at the top of the screen and swipe down to open the notifications menu.

2. Open your notifications

You can now see all your notifications. Tap a notification to go directly to the app that sent it.

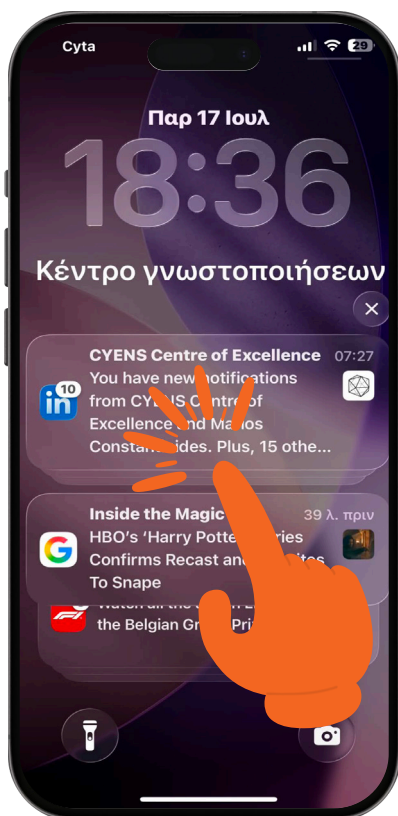

Notifications.

How to view notifications.

See all your notifications

When there are many grouped together, tap once to open all of them.

Group your notifications again

Tap the word "Less" to group the notifications again.

